Post Op

Pain

Post-operative pain is normal but the intensity can differ between individuals. Analgesia will be given to you during your hospital stay and made available to you on your discharge if still required. Please refer to the Medications section below.

Wound

The wound site is kept clean and dry. The stitches are usually dissolvable but if not they will be removed in 7-9 days. A waterproof dressing will be applied to your wound before discharge. This is to be kept on for 7-10 days. If the dressing falls off before this time you will need to have this re-dressed. Keep your wound dry during this time to avoid infection.

Food

You will be able to drink 4 hours after your operation and have a light diet if you desire. A normal diet and fluid intake is usually started on the day following your operation.

Nausea and Vomiting

Some people are very sensitive to surgical procedures. Nausea and vomiting may occur as a result of the general anaesthesia, the procedure performed or the medication prescribed.

If you have nausea and vomiting, please do the following:

- Keep well hydrated with frequent small drinks of clear fluids. It is recommended that you drink water, lemonade or diluted fruit juice. Avoid milk.
- Cease your medications, as in most cases the nausea and/or vomiting is related to the antibiotics prescribed. Once these have been ceased the nausea and/or vomiting will usually resolve.
- Contact Dr Daoud's office at Greenslopes if the nausea and/or vomiting persists.

Activities

You will be able to get out of bed later on the day of the surgery to go to the toilet. You will be able to walk short distances the next day and increase this slowly as you feel fit. 24 hours after surgery you must not drive any motor-vehicles or operate machinery. You must not drink any alcohol, as alcohol and prescribed medication is a dangerous mix. You must also check with your car insurance to ensure you follow their guidelines as well.

Medication

You will generally be prescribed pain killers. It is imperative that you notify Dr Daoud of any allergies you have to medications. If you are taking medications prescribed by your doctor you need to return to your normal dosage schedule as soon as possible after surgery unless directed otherwise.
